Athletic Director

Charles P. (Chuck) Erickson, who was a fine athlete at the University of North Carolina as an outstanding halfback on the 1928-30 football teams, is now its distinguished Director of Athletics.

Always a well-respected and important member of the Carolina athletic program since he came to Chapel Hill in 1932, Erickson, since his promotion to the top athletic spot in June, 1952, has done an excellent job and ranks high in his profession.

"Chuck" played for the Tar Heels during the era of "Chuck" Collins and was a great runner and pass receiver. Those were the years of Carolina's teams of a "million backs" but Erickson was more than "one in a million."

After his graduation with a B.S. degree in Engineering, he entered business for two years but then returned to Chapel Hill to work with the Athletic Department. Save for a tour with the Navy during World War II as a Lieutenant Commander, he's been at Woollen Gymnasium ever since, serving as assistant to "Coach Bob" Fetzer before his promotion when "Coach Bob" resigned to become Executive Secretary of the Morehead Foundation.

In addition to his directorship "Chuck" serves as UNC golf coach and has been outstandingly successful. His teams won the Southern Conference championships, both team and individual, in 1952 and 1953 and his golfers were runners-up in both team and individual play in the 1953 NCAA championships. He turned out a National Champion in Harvie Ward (1949), who since then has won the British Amateur title.

One of his greatest steps at Carolina has been the construction of the beautiful 18-hole Finley Golf Course and Clubhouse, a spot that has become a by-word with students during fair-weather days.

Erickson is well known throughout the nation for his work in athletics and it has been this factor which has helped procure some of the top teams in the country for games at Chapel Hill. He is well regarded in the Atlantic Coast Conference as well as the NCAA and has been asked to serve on some of the most important committees of both groups.

Chuck lives at 601 Park Place in Chapel Hill with his wife and young daughter, but his busy schedule sometimes finds him away from Chapel Hill more than he is at home. His position calls for fast and hard work, but the former Tar Heel star seems to thrive on it.

Head Coach

George Thomas Barclay was the University of North Carolina's first All-America player, winning the honor his senior year, 1934. As a dynamic guard, he established such a high reputation that the jersey number 99, which he wore, was retired.

Barclay served one year, 1952, as Carl Snavely's assistant, before being elevated to the post of head coach when his old coach resigned. Snavely brought him here from Washington and Lee, where he was a highly successful head coach for three years. Snavely made plans to install a split-T system, and Barclay was the obvious assistant for this, having earned the reputation of being one of the nation's top young split-T coaches.

Barclay's 1950 Washington and Lee team won the Southern Conference championship, winning eight that season and losing only to powerful Tennessee and Virginia. His 1951 team gave Virginia its only defeat, by a 42-14 score, and yielded a season's record of six wins and four defeats. His three-year stretch with the Generals showed 18 wins, 10 defeats and two ties, playing a tough schedule.

A native of Natrona, Pa., Barclay was a star schoolboy player at Kiski Prep before coming to North Carolina. He was a prize pupil of the late J. L. Marks, outstanding Kiski coach and one of the school's owners.

After his graduation from the University of North Carolina, he had a short whirl as a professional with the Brooklyn Dodgers of the old National League. A knee injury in the fourth game of the season prematurely ended his playing days. Barclay's first coaching assignment was as assistant to Bill Rafferty at V.M.I. in 1937. He worked nine months of the year with the Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company, living in Philadelphia. He returned to Chapel Hill for graduate work for the next two years, assisting freshman coach Walter Skidmore during the fall. After completing his physical education studies, he joined Lysle Butler at Oberlin College in Ohio in 1948 as football line coach and head basketball coach. He moved up to the big time in 1941 and 1942, coaching the line at Dartmouth under Tuss McLaughry.

During the next three years George served in the Navy working in the physical fitness program, where he was able to continue his coaching. He assisted Rex Enright at Georgia Pre-Flight and then was assistant to Don Faurot and Jim Tatum successively, at Jacksonville Naval Air Station. He studied and first learned the Split-T under Faurot, inventor of the system.

George emerged from the services a full lieutenant and returned to his post as line coach at Dartmouth in 1946. However, the next year he got a call from Tatum and went to Maryland, where he was named line coach. Barclay worked there for three seasons before he was given his first head job at Washington and Lee.

George is 43 years old (born May 24, 1911), married to the former Maryellen Holbrook of Van Wert, Ohio, who was a coed at Carolina when he did his graduate work here. They have two daughters, Pamela, 10, and Carol, 13. Maryellen is an ardent golfer, playing nearly every day. George likes golf, but his sports interests are universal. He is regarded as the University's most avid sports fan, and when he is not engrossed in his own coaching duties, rarely misses a game in which any Carolina team participates.

Assistant Coaches

MARVIN RUDOLPH BASS: This native of Petersburg, Va. made quite a big name for himself as a tackle at the College of William and Mary during his undergraduate days. "Moose" was All-Southern Conference and captain of the 1942 Indians, a team that won the conference championship.

Bass decided to remain at William and Mary after graduation, despite several tempting offers to play and coach in professional football. He made an impressive reputation as line coach of the Indians. His powerful William and Mary lines caught the eye of Carl Snavely and the latter, then coaching here, appointed him to the North Carolina staff in 1951.

Bass made many friends in Chapel Hill and among the University's alumni, but remained here only a season. Coaching turnovers at his alma mater sent him back, and after one year as an assistant, he was named head coach of the Indians. He remained on that post during the 1951 season only. During his absence the William and Mary athletic outlook had become so uncertain and clouded that he found the work incompatiable, and he moved to Washington as line coach for the professional Washington Redskins.

When George Barclay was appointed head coach of the Tar Heels, he went after Bass as the first plank in building his staff.

Marvin is married to the former Audrey Wallace and they have an adopted son, Randy, age six.

WILLIAM MILLER EDWARDS: In front of a background of wide and successful experience, Bill begins his second year on the Carolina staff.

Edwards served as head coach and athletic director at Vanderbilt for four years just before coming here. His teams at Vanderbilt, playing the stiffest schedules, won 21 games, lost 19 and tied two. He turned out two All-Americans, back Bill

Wade and end Bucky Curtis. Bill was named "Coach of the Week" six times in a national poll as the result of upset victories that his teams gained.

Bill, who is 47 years old, graduated at Wittenberg College in Ohio, in 1931. He was a star lineman there at the same time O. K. Cornwell, Chairman of Physical Education at the University, was Wittenberg Athletic Director. He and Cornwell have been close friends since then.

Edwards began his coaching career at Fostoria, Ohio, high school. He served as head coach at Western Reserve University from 1933 through 1940. Three of his teams had undefeated seasons. In 1941 he was named head coach of the professional Detroit Lions. Bill also put in two years with the St. Louis Browns as assistant to Paul Brown.

At Carolina he coaches chiefly on offense, with both backfield and line. Edwards has three children: Bill, 20, Jane, 18, and Mary 11. His daughter Jane is a student at the University of North Carolina. He is married to beauteous Dorothy Agler of Canton, Ohio.

STEPHEN NICHOLOS BELICHICK: When Steve joined the Carolina coaching staff two springs ago, he felt right at home working alongside Bill Edwards, who had already come here. Edwards was Steve's coach at Western Reserve and for the past four years Steve had been an assistant to Edwards at Vanderbilt.

A good, solid college halfback, Steve was able to step up into the professional bracket to play with the Detroit Lions.

He began his coaching at Southwestern Louisiana Institute during his Navy V-12 training. After two years Navy overseas service, he became head coach at Hiram College in Ohio and remained on that job three years before joining Edwards at Vanderbilt.

Belichick established a record for himself as a coach on pass defense at Vanderbilt.

Steve is married to the former Jeanette Munn of West Palm Beach, Fla. They have a two-year-old son, William Stephen.

RALPH NIXON FLOYD: Ralph comes to Carolina this year as freshman coach with a fine reputation not only as a coach but as an excellent recruiter. A native of Bethesda, Maryland, he comes to Chapel Hill as an old friend, since he attended the University briefly before the service.

After his service discharge, Ralph went to William and Mary, where he was a letterman star guard three seasons. He played under Rube McCray when Marvin Bass was line coach there. The latter is line coach here now and strongly recommended Floyd to head coach George Barclay.

Floyd started coaching as head man at Front Royal high school in 1950. When Bass served one year as head coach at William and Mary, in 1951, Floyd joined him as defensive line coach. For the past two years, Floyd has been line coach at the University of Richmond.

Floyd is 29 years old, and is married to the former Suzanne Trimble of Arlington, Va.

Outlook for 1954

General over-all improvement is expected for the University of North Carolina football team in 1954.

Specifically, this team should have much more speed than recent Tar Heel editions. A considerably sharper passing attack is counted on. Indications are the line will be stouter and quicker. The coaching staff appointed last year should do a better job in its second season, now being well acquainted with the talent at hand and in a surer position to evaluate it.

In a tailspin in each of the two years before George Barclay became head coach the Tar Heels won only two games. Last year they managed four wins while dropping six. There is a general feeling they are now on their way back to their former traditionally hand standing in the game.

Twenty-one lettermen are listed on the roster. Standouts among the veterans include halfbacks Connie Gravitte, Larry Parker and Ken Keller, tackle Jack Maultsby and guard Jimmy Neville. They are the old warriors the spotlight likely will be on throughout the season.

Gravitte and Keller were the busiest ball carriers in 1953 and got the most done, along with the departed Dick Lackey and Billy Williams, who will be missed. Parker, a star in the spring Blue-White game, will be looked to for his best year as he closes out his career.

Nick Marcopolus of last year's squad and rising sophomores Larry McMullen, Ed Sutton and Don Klochak are other backs of exceptionally high promise.

The backfield problem, of course, and a key question mark, on the entire team is quarterback. Five quarterbacks (three of them lettermen) are listed on the roster with Albert Long and Marshall Newman generally regarded as front runners. Long has all the physical qualifications and lacks only the experience to settle down into a being a first rate man. Newman has never quite come through as real top flight but he has greatly improved in his passing, softening his throws, and he will challenge strongly for the job.

Maultsby, the former Marine star, should bolster the line greatly. He will be surrounded by such veteran worthies as Neville, Bill Kirkman, Bill Koman, Ed Patterson, George Foti, Roland Perdue and Ralph Beaver, along with promising newcomers John Bilich and George Stavnitski.

Veterans Will Frye, Dick Starner, Norman Lane and Dan Mainer will have tough competition from rising sophomores Darden Livesay and Doug Malone, among others. Larry Muschamp, a holdover non-letterman, is one of the squad's best pass catchers who also will be thick in the battle for lots of action. Leading receiver last year was halfback Gravitte who caught eleven for 169 yards.

The team must find a punter to replace Lackey, the conference leader last year with a 43.4 average. Parker, Long and sophomore Bill Gould are probably the best kickers, along with tackle Maultsby.

ENDS: Improvement, more speed, better receiving with Muschamp and Frye top catchers.

TACKLES: Here again, more speed, but less experience than last year. Maultsby is the man, and what a man.

GUARDS: Best fortified position on squad because of depth and experience. Six lettermen.

CENTERS: Kirkman has the experience and sophomore Stavnitski the glowing promise. Good combination. Better linebacking seems sure.

QUARTERBACKS: Same talent, but with year of experience behind them. Passing is improved.

HALFBACKS: Very handsome. Gravitte, Keller, Parker, among the best. Worrell and soph Sutton should be excellent pinch hitters.

FULLBACKS: We'll miss Dick Lackey and Billy Williams, especially their punting but Nick Marcopulus and Larry McMullen are big, strong and fast.

Quote from Coach

"More hustle, keener competition for positions, a better passing attack with improved both throwing and receiving.

"We feel that we have a fine backfield if we can solve our quarterback problem. We can't make sure about that. It looks like it will be a battle between Marshall Newman and Albert Long. Newman is better on defense than offense and has never quite measured up as a competent quarterback, but he has softened up on his passes and has improved. Long has all the physical requirements for the job and if he can get the poise at crucial times and straighten out sometimes erratic field generalship, he may be the boy.

"Guard is our strongest position in the line. Jack Maultsby, who was not with us last year, has bolstered the tackle post. He really looks great and is a leader who should inspire the team.

"Probably our biggest problem is kicking. We will miss Dick Lackey and Billy Williams, who were top punters. Larry Parker and Albert Long are two of our best kickers. Bill Gould is the best of the new boys. Sonny Ridenhour is another we are working on.

"Last year's freshmen will give us a lot of help. Darden Livesay, an end, who along with tackle John Bilich and fullback Larry McMullen very well could land on the first string. Steve Klochak is a speedy new fullback and Ed Sutton a speedy halfback."

—George Barclay, Head Coach

Player Profiles

ENDS

62—WILL FRYE, 20, 190, 6-0, Junior, Hickory, N. C. Skilled receiver, very fast, and looks for big year. Set back by injuries last year but saw enough action to catch nine passes for 67 yards. Won letter his freshman year, 1952. Also won monogram on baseball team as catcher-first baseman. Considered excellent prospect for professional baseball. Full of scrap.

60—NORMAN LANE, 20, 190, 6-2, Junior, Roselle Park, N. J. Second year on varsity, Lane is rated as fine prospect for this season. Won his monogram in 1953, coming along fast late in the year. Caught five passes for 71 yards, one touchdown. Got his break last fall, when Captain Ken Yarborough was shifted to tackle, and made good. All-State in high school two years and broke county record by catching ten touchdown passes in one season. Plans to be a dentist.

69—DICK STARNER, 21, 195, 6-2, Senior, Elkhart, Ind. Although Dick failed to see enough competition as either freshman or sophomore to earn a letter, he came through last year. Should see considerable action this time and with determination and cooperation, he could ring the bell. He caught one pass for 31 yards in 1953 and racked up one TD. In high school he was Northern Indiana All-Conference.

63—LARRY MUSCHAMP, 20, 190, 6-0, Junior, Mount Berry, Ga. Ranks as one of the squad's top receivers. Larry has put on about twelve pounds, thus helping to overcome his biggest weakness last season, his small size, when he was held out, looking to the future. He showed great improvement in spring drills.

66—BILL BAKER, 21, 205, 6-3, Senior, Southern Pines, N. C. Has all the physical assets to make a great end, but was bogged down in shift to guard two seasons back. Second year back at end. Had played only six-man football before coming to Carolina.

68—DARDEN LIVESAY, 19, 194, 6-2, Sophomore, Emporia, Va. Big and rugged, tentatively slated for first string. He was an All-State selection in high school in addition to making group and regional squads. Work in spring and on freshman team most impressive.

64—DOUG MALONE, 19, 173, 6-0, Sophomore, Pulaski, Va. Small but aggressive end who was outstanding as freshman. Doug made the All-County team three years running while playing for Pulaski High. He plans to study business administration.

67—DAN MAINER, 20, 185, 5-11, Senior, Richmond, Va. Dan is comparatively small for an end, but a tough customer on the playing field. After a couple seasons of limited duty, he hopes for more extended service this year. Formerly lived in Charlotte, where he was a great high school player, All-City, All-State, and Shrine Bowl. Wants to coach after leaving college.

65—STEVE KENNY, 23, 180, 6-1, Junior, Raleigh, N. C. A married former GI, Steve is one of the older boys on the squad. He proved himself a hard worker last season. He is from an athletic family, his sister Frances being a celebrated swimmer. He's the son of an alumnus of the University.

61—JIM RAUGH, JR., 19, 185, 6-1, Sophomore, Washington, D. C. An excellent kicker and fine offensive player. Needs more experience on defense. Star pitcher on freshman baseball team. His father was one of the Commanders of the Pre-Flight school here during war.

TACKLES

77—JACK MAULTSBY, 22, 220, 6-0, Junior, Chapel Hill, N. C. Should be the bulwark of the line. Has promise of being one of the nation's really great tackles. Re-entered college last year after his hitch in the Marines, where he was an All-Star service player. Lettered here before joining the armed forces, getting in two years of impressive play. Full in stature and experienced. Jack is married and the father of a son, John Warren, Jr., born last summer. Baseball letterman as catcher.

72—JOHN BILICH, 19, 210, 6-3, Sophomore, Alquippa, Pa. Hot candidate for first-string varsity after some stalwart performances with the Tar Babies last fall and in spring practice. If his coaches are right, John could be first string varsity tackle for the next three years running. Came here recommended by varsity player Bill Koman and was impressive from start.

85—RALPH BEAVER, 20, 220, 6-3, Senior, Asheville, N. C. Ralph has the heft and height, and also can move. Injuries to other players gave him his first chance last season, since he wasn't a regular then. Turned out to be one of the steadiest tackles on the team. This is his third year on the squad. In high school played in Shrine Bowl and in East-West game at Greensboro.

71—ROLAND PERDUE, 20, 195, 6-1, Junior, College Park, Ga. This man has climbed the ladder fast. As a freshman he jumped from the jayvees to second-string varsity guard. Although hampered by injuries last fall, he had plenty of action. Letterman in track as weight man. Made many All-Star high school teams including All-State.

87—John Lambert, 20, 195, 6-2, Junior, Rocky River, Ohio Came to Carolina and reported to the football squad without solicitation. Pushed his way up through Jayvee ranks and came along fast as an offensive player. All-Conference two years back home at Rocky River. Shot putter on track team.

86—TOM MAULTSBY, 20, 195, 6-0, Junior, Chapel Hill, N. C. Hefty but shy on speed. Showed steady improvement last fall as a reserve guard. Shows fine attitude and aggressiveness. Had fine record as high school athlete. Pitcher on Carolina's baseball team last spring.

73—JOHN JONES, 20, 210, 6-2, Sophomore, Richmond, Va. Keeps up the Carolina tradition of big tackles. Played at Sanford, N. C. before moving to Richmond and then to Greenbrier Military School in West Va. before entering Carolina. Fine record as prepper and freshman.

GUARDS

74—JIMMY NEVILLE, 20, 185, 5-9, Senior, Chapel Hill, N. C. One of the squad's most improved players. Tagged tentatively for first-string. Lacks height but seems to make up for it in tenacity. A home town boy making good. Married last summer.

82—BILL KOMAN, 19, 190, 6-2, Junior, Alquippa, Pa. Switched from center this season. Stacks up as one of the top linemen. Came up fast, graduating from the Jayvee ranks during his freshman year. Took over injured Kirkman's center role last fall and handled himself with finesse, picking up resource of needed experience. At Alquippa, Bill was three-sports letterman, "most valuable" in all-star game.

78—GEORGE FOTI, 20, 195, 6-0, Senior, Orlando, Fla. Rugged competitor. Has seen days as a fullback in high school. Started here as blocking back in the single wing. Converted to guard in 1952, but a knee injury has hampered his services. Saw enough action last fall, however, to earn his second letter.

70—ED PATTERSON, 20, 195, 5-10, Senior, Albemarle, N. C. Considered team's best lineman last year and looks good for another season. Has strong competition, though, in well fortified line. Distinguished himself in 1952 when he first nailed down a regular right guard berth on the offensive unit. Made most All-State teams last fall as the only Tar Heel lineman to achieve such recognition.

79—WILL ALEXANDER, 21, 170, 5-11, Senior, Winston-Salem, N. C. A two-letterman, Will has great prowess, Handicapped by his diminutive stature, but ranks high in aggressiveness. Should see sizeable duty this year as a senior.

83—STEVE MARCINKO, 20, 195, 6-0, Senior, Johnstown, Pa. Steve has the heft and ability to be one of Carolina's star performers at guard this year. Showed marked improvement in spring drills, particularly on defense. One of the six lettermen at guard. District All-Star player in high school.

75—HUDSON SHOULARS, 20, 195, 6-0, Junior, Rich Square, N. C. Hudson is a leading guard candidate. He's lacking in experience but should be throwing his 195 pounds around before long. Caught coaches' eyes last year. Three-sports man in high school and All-Conference football player as captain of his team.

90—ERNEST DEANE, 19, 175, 6-0, Sophomore, Charlottesville, Va. Although comparatively light, plays aggressive football. Big help to the Tar Babies last season.

CENTERS

51—BILL KIRKMAN, 20, 190, 6-0, Senior, Burlington, N. C. Bill was assured of plenty of duty as a first-string center last fall until he broke a wrist bone before the season's opener. His will to play, however, spurred him on, and he was back in action before the season ended. Now fully recovered, more eager than ever, he's tagged as the top center. He's a Phi Beta Kappa. In high school he was a Shrine Bowler and also played in the All-American High School Bowl.

52—GEORGE STAVNITSKI, 20, 210, 6-1, Sophomore, Fairfield, Conn. One of the most outstanding Tar Baby linemen last fall and certain to see plenty of action this season. His brawn and ability gained him honors as all-county, all-district, all-state and all-prep during his pre-Carolina days. Has fine promise.

56—LEONARD RHYNE, 19, 195, 6-2, Sophomore, Gastonia, N. C. Leonard has been shifted from halfback. Has great potential. Achieved record as an outstanding all-state defensive star before coming to Carolina. Also won awards as "most improved" and "most valuable" in high school.

54—RONNIE CURRENT, 20, 175, 6-0, Junior, Winston-Salem, N. C. Ronnie was on the squad last year, but he was a little small to be a top center. His enthusiasm and hustling ability indicate an active season this fall. Transferred here from Lees-McRae Jr. College and has two more years of eligibility. Played at High Point High School before his junior college days.

QUARTERBACKS

27—MARSHALL NEWMAN, 20, 185, 6-0, Junior, Clinton, N. C. Top passer with a two-season record of 60 pass completions in 173 attempts and 10 touchdown tosses. Marshall has alternated at halfback and quarterback. Fine defensive player. Looked better than ever in spring practice, particularly in softening up passes. With a vital year of experience behind him now, he should do big things this season. A top student, he is smart in calling plays. He is extremely durable and has an ardent competitive spirit. Attending Carolina on a "Charlie Justice Scholarship."

29—ALBERT LONG, 22, 180, 6-0, Junior, Durham, N. C. A versatile four-sport athlete, Al saw limited action last fall as a reserve quarterback. He completed four passes for 40 yards and picked up 44 more rushing. Divided his time last spring between football and baseball. Long, a flashy ball handler, will alternate at running the team with Marshall Newman. Like Newman, he's got the experience now and should do big things.

25—LEONARD BULLOCK, 22, 175, 6-1, Junior, Ayden, N. C. Although Bullock had to miss spring practice as the result of an operation, he'll be back in action as strong as ever. Last season he completed 21 passes for a 212 yard total. His high point last year was the Georgia game. "Teedy" has been in several dramatic productions with the Carolina Playmakers.

20—DOUG FARMER, 19, 170, 5-11, Sophomore, Pulaski, Va. A fine runner. Small in stature but handles the quarterback post with great deception. Good passer. Distinguished himself as an outstanding high school player before coming here.

LEFT HALFBACKS

35—KEN KELLER, 19, 185, 5-10, Junior, Salina, Pa. One of the most outstanding halfbacks at Carolina in recent years. His brilliant showing last fall earned him All-State recognition. He was Tar Heel individual statistical leader last fall in rushing, kickoff returns, and scoring. Also top outfielder in baseball. Aggressive and willing, he's one of the lettered standouts on this season's team.

33—LARRY PARKER, 21, 185, 6-0, Senior, Charlotte, N. C. Strong and dependable halfback last season. Larry netted 132 yards rushing and passing, scoring three touchdowns and passing for another. He's a fine punter and broken field runner and starred in last spring's Blue-White game. Now a sound and solid senior, Larry's looking better than ever and is determined to make his senior year the big one. One of the nation's finest in high school. Star golfer for Carolina.

34—CHARLES BOYETTE, 19, 165, 5-9, Sophomore, Chadbourne, N. C. "Bill" is small, but aggressive. A promising halfback candidate. He was an outstanding school leader as well as gridder at Chadbourn High School. Saw a great deal of action as freshman.

36—STAN DONNAHOE, 18, 170, 6-0, Sophomore, Roxanna, Ill. A top defensive player who can move the ball well. He's the son of a former Carolina star, and was one of the fastest men on the Tar Baby squad. Good on defense. Won All-State and All-District honors back home.

48—DON LEAR, 19, 175, 5-9, Sophomore, Hatboro, Pa. A three-year letterman in high school, he was effective as a freshman and has big ambitions for the varsity. His team's "most valuable" in high school.

38—SONNY RIDENHOUR, 21, 170, 5-10, Senior, Winston-Salem, N. C. Saw his first varsity offensive action last fall but was used sparingly. He is very adept defensively and should get a chance to show what he can do this season. Injuries have retarded his varsity career. All-Conference and All-State in high school.

RIGHT HALFBACKS

39—CONNIE GRAVITTE, 20, 195, 6-0, Senior, Roxboro, N. C. Connie was Carolina's top receiver last fall. Also he was second in yards gained with 302 and had a 4.9 average. A dangerous, explosive runner, geared to go all the way with proper collaboration from his mates. Last year he sidestepped and spurted for 169 yards, returned eight punts for 104 yards, ran back five kickoffs for 117 yards, caught one TD aerial, tossed one TD pass, and generally terrorized Tar Heel opponents. Admirers see even bigger things ahead for him as a senior. Star outfielder on the baseball team and plans professional baseball career.

30—ED SUTTON, 19, 188, 6-1, Sophomore, Cullowhee, N. C. A star freshman halfback, Ed faces a bright future with the varsity. A speedy performer. Also a top basketball prospect and outstanding student. In Carolina on a Morehead Scholarship.

31—BILL GOULD, 19, 190, 6-0, Sophomore, Cocoa, Fla. One of the hardest runners on the freshman squad and a top defensive man. Felt right at home with a single-platoon system, since he was both offensive and defensive player in high school. Achieved All-Conference recognition for two years running before coming here. An exceptional punter.

FULLBACKS

47—LARRY MCMULLEN, 19, 200, 6-1, Sophomore, Lumberton, N. C. One of the squad's finest prospects. Last year's top freshman halfback. Big, strong, and fast. Has looked good on defensive too. Was an All-Eastern, All-State, and Shrine Bowl player. Played six-man football his first two years in high school and then transferred to Lumberton, making honors in only two years. Tentatively slated for the starting team, he's a boy to watch.

44—NICK MARCOPULUS, 20, 190, 5-11, Junior, Rye, N. Y. A reserve fullback last fall, Nick could be the top fullback this year. He showed flashes of brilliance last fall, especially in the Virginia game when he picked up 93 yards in 12 rushes. During the season he failed to be thrown for a loss in 30 carries.

40—DON KLOCHAK, 19, 218, 6-2, Sophomore, Fairhope, Pa. Don has the speed, as demonstrated by his sensational freshman performances last season. He's big and rugged and good for several yards on every carry. Needs to brush up on defense, but still quite promising.

43—GEORGE WALLIN, 21, 190, 6-0, Senior, Maplewood, N. J. Served as a reserve halfback last fall. Should see more action this fall. Handicapped some in the past by lack of experience, but that's been overcome. He was All-County and All-State high school. A top student.

42—DANNY WILLIAMS, 18, 190, 6-0, Sophomore, Valdese, N. C. Came to Carolina with a three-year all-conference record plus action in the East-West and Optimist Bowl games. Competent freshman performer. Now he'll compete with more experienced boys for the post, but chances are he'll see action this fall.

GOOD STUDENTS

Players on the 1954 football squad rank high in their studies. More than a dozen have B-averages and there is one Phi Beta Kappa, center Bill Kirkman.

First forward pass?—The late John W. Heisman, noted football authority, writing in Collier's Weekly for October 20, 1928, claimed for the University of North Carolina the first forward pass in the American game of modern football. This was in a game between North Carolina and Georgia in 1895, with George Stephens taking the "pass" and running 70 yards for a touchdown.

UNC Trainers

FITZ LUTZ, head football trainer at Carolina, is a veteran in his field who formerly was trainer at the University of Georgia and with the Professional Baltimore Colts. He is a former Chairman of the Board of Directors of the National Athletic Trainers Association and also former President of the District 3 NCAA Trainers Association.

R. A. (DOC) WHITE, a long time member of the Tar Heel staff, is Lutz's chief assistant in football and is head trainer in baseball and basketball. He is one of the most popular members of the staff, friend of the players.

Carolina trainers have many duties, in addition to caring for injured athletes. They are the coaches' main advisers on many subjects and work in close contact with them on such matters as athletes' equipment, diet and general deportment.

FIRST ALL-AMERICAN

George Barclay, head coach of the Tar Heels, was the school's first All-America player. He made the Blue Ribbon list at guard in 1934.

Opponents

Carolina in 1954 faces its customary rugged ten-game schedule, five contests at home and five away. Tulane is a prominent newcomer on the schedule, this game to be played at New Orleans on Oct. 2. Georgia and Tennessee are other Southeastern Conference opponents. The big intersectional game is with Notre Dame at South Bend on Nov. 13. Notes on Carolina's opponents for 1954 will be found on the pages to follow.

1954 PROSPECTS

The Wolfpack's new coach, Earle Edwards, and a new system, a multiple offense, add up to what State supporters say will be an improved Wolfpack. The 16 lettermen returning to the squad will make for some experience. In spring drills most of the time was spent in perfecting the offense. Even with a tough schedule ahead, the overall State picture will be an improved one and likely to spring some surprises.

1954 PROSPECTS

The 1954 Tulane Green Wave will be predominantly sophomores with a sprinkling of juniors and seniors. The heaviest loss Coach Pilney faces in his first year as head football coach will be in the backfield. Three lettermen backs are returning, two of whom are sophomores. Three sophomore quarterbacks, with little experience, will direct Pilney's split-T attack. None are letterwinners. None have Southeastern Conference experience. The Tulane line will be average size with fair speed, but will lack depth. Like the quarterback situation, the center spot will be weak, with three sophomores sharing the duty. Nevertheless, fans predict an interesting, and possibly a surprising, Tulane team this season.

1954 PROSPECTS

Although this year's Bulldogs will be what Georgia coaches call the most inexperienced team in several years, it is expected to have more ability and speed than teams of recent years. The team will have 46 sophomores, and it will not have the services of Zeke Bratkowski, one of the top passers in the nation. Nevertheless, Georgia will be fierce this season. It has the best corps of running backs since its last championship team in 1948. After the early games, which should give the less experienced line and quarterbacks their needed seasoning, the Bulldogs will be a powerful team for any foe to face.

1954 PROSPECTS

Although the Terps lost seven of their starting eleven from last season's national championship squad, including All-America quarterback Bernie Faloney, All-America halfback Chester Hanulak and All-America tackle Stan Jones, they'll be battling to keep their unbeaten, untied record of last year. Returning are 26 lettermen to help them do it. Terp coaches say that this year's team will be just as good offensively, with the defense being the biggest problem. But ample replacements seem to be on the squad to make the Terps as big a threat as ever.

The team which upset South Carolina, 19-13, is back, almost intact, and several promising sophomores will add offensive punch to Wake Forest's attack.

1954 PROSPECTS

Versatility on offense and a stubborn defense carry the main hopes for the 1954 Gamecocks. The breakaway running of halfbacks Carl Brazell and Mike Caskey and the passing of quarterback Harold Lewis hold the key to the T-formation offense. Such standouts as center Leon Cunningham and guard Frank Mincevich promise to make the defensive line as stubborn as a Russian diplomat. The Gamecocks, who won seven and lost three last season, have 19 lettermen in all, but lost many valuable players. With a schedule ahead that's anything but easy, South Carolina coaches are confident of a good season, but not as optimistic as last year.

1954 PROSPECTS

New head coach Terry Brennan begins his work at Notre Dame with losses of top-quality players being the worst since the big departure following the 1949 national championship year. Six All-American players were lost, including Johnny Lattner, Neil Worden, Art Hunter, Jim Schrader, Menil Mavraides, and Don Penza. Reports from the Irish indicate that spring drills were hampered by bad weather. All that is as reported from South Bend, but nobody is deluded. The Irish likely will be as potent as ever.

1954 PROSPECTS

The Cavaliers appear to have the backfield speed, power and depth that they lacked last year. The line should be up to the standard of recent good seasons. Herman Gatling, a brilliant fullback in '51 and '52, rejoined backfield lettermen Henry Strempek, Ray Quillen, Rives Bailey, Tom Berry, Herbert Hartwell and Eddie Knowles during spring practice. Five line regulars are returning and the two prospective sophomore additions are rated as superior.

Duke lost 13 lettermen, including six starters, from last year's fine team. However, the Blue Devils have 20 monogram winners returning plus an extraordinary group of sophomores. Among the returning stars are captain and quarterback Jerry Barger, fullback Worth Lutz, center Johnny Palmer, guards Jesse Birchfield and Ralph Torrance, and tackle Doug Knotts. Sophomores Sonny Jurgensen, Dan Cox, Roy Hord, Len Black and Buddy Bass are expected to see much service. All this points to another flaming season for the lads across the way.

Since 1888

Football is no baby at the University of North Carolina. It has been around, in one shape or another, since 1888, and is quite an old man now. In fact, the Tar Heels played in the State's first intercollegiate game. Mr. John Motley Morehead, one of the college's most illustrious alumni and donor of the fabulous Morehead Planetarium, among many other gifts, was a member of the team.

North Carolina contested Wake Forest in that first game. The date was October 18, 1888, and the site was Raleigh. It was State Fair week and the game was chronicled as one of the most interesting features of the festival.

In those days when a team scored a goal, a game was over. Then they started from scratch and went after each other again. North Carolina scored the first goal, Wake Forest the next two. So Wake Forest picked up the marbles and is historically credited with the day's victory.

Charles S. Mangum, A. H. Patterson, George Graham, George Ransom, J. S. Holmes and Henry A. Gilliam were other members of Bob Bingham's North Carolina team. North Carolina Chief Justice W. A. Devin was one of the Wake Forest players.

Later that year, on Thanksgiving Day, Carolina played Duke (then Trinity), another football pioneer of this area. Carolina was beaten, 16-0.

North Carolina's first really great team came in 1892. It was no two-platoon job. Only one substitute was made during the entire season as the team won five and lost one. And in 1898 Carolina was unbeaten and untied. No other Carolina football team has accomplished that feat.

Smith Barrier's excellent and momumental "On Carolina's Gridiron," a history of the sport at Chapel Hill—published in 1937, listed the 1892, 1895, 1898, 1905, 1929 and 1935 teams as the University's greatest—as selected by a committee. Some of the more modern teams, notably those of the Charlie Justice era, could be added to the list. Carolina's 1948 team ranked third in the nation by the Associated Press poll, to top all rankings for Carolina football teams. That team was undefeated in the regular season but was tied 7-7 by William and Mary.

Among the other truly outstanding Carolina teams were 1914 (10-1) with 359 points to opponents' 49; 1922 (9-1); 1925 (7-1-1); 1934 (7-1-1); 1936 (8-2); and 1937 (7-1).

Doggie Trenchard coached the high scoring 1914 team on which Captain Dave Tayloe was a star.

The brothers Fetzer, Bill and Bob, took over in 1921. Their 1922 team, captained by Grady Pritchard, was the most successful. The Tar Heels lost only to Yale, then a gridiron power, and three times in that game they went over for touchdowns in an attack led by "Monk" McDonald, but all three scores were called back on account of penalties.

The only loss in 1925 was to Wake Forest, and this was the last of the Fetzer-coached teams. Chuck Collins, one of the "Seven Mules" of the Notre Dame Four Horsemen, took over in 1926 for an engaging and intriguing eight-year span. Kay Kyser introduced his famous Cheerios and Mr. William Rand Kenan, Jr., handed the University a check for $275,000 to be used for building Kenan Stadium.

Red Whisnant captained the first Collins eleven, Garrett Morehead the second (the year Kenan Stadium was dedicated) and Harry Schwartz the third. Their teams played colorful football but lost too many games. It was not until 1929 that the enigmatic Collins turned out a team to attract national attention. Led by Ray Farris, a hell-for-leather guard, the Tar Heels bowled over all opponents with imposing scores and lost only to Georgia.

This was the team of a "hundred backs" which worked in combinations. Collins was a pioneer. He had one player who did nothing except kick off. His name was Ezra Rowe and he was pretty good at the business. Collins' most colorful player was Johnny Branch, a terrific runner.

When Collins departed, Carl Snavely moved in and had great teams in 1934 and 1935. George Barclay was Carolina's first All-America player in 1934. Charlie Shaffer came into his own. The 1935 team lost only to Duke in the season's finale, knocking it out of a Rose Bowl bid. Andy Bershak, Don Jackson and Crowell Little were among the aces.

Next was the Ray Wolf era. His 1937 team beat Duke but the Tar Heels did not win another game from their arch rivals until 1940 when they scored a 6-3 upset. Jim Lalanne, Paul Severin, George Stirnweiss, Harry Dunkle and Steve Maronic are among the best remembered of Wolf's players.

The war years were synthetic and after that Snavely came back. A host of new stars, including the incomparable Charlie Justice matriculated here. He and Art Weiner led the way through four glorious seasons in which the Tar Heels won two Southern Conference championships and played in three major bowls. Every player was a star. Duke went down four years in a row. The talent was handsome and the play was flaming and colorful.

There followed a cycle of defeats in another transition period, but now football appears on the way back to its traditional high standing at Chapel Hill.

Kenan Memorial Stadium

In a natural valley about two thousand feet rom the center of the campus of the University nd just above the spot long known as the Meet- ng of the Waters, there is a natural amphitheatre, asily approached by paths that follow the lay of he land. The brook that flows through this valley as cut a ravine so that the floor of the stream is evel and smooth and the banks rise with equal teepness on either side.

Here is the site of Kenan Memorial Stadium. In he completeness and harmony of its appointments, he convenience of its seating, and the beauty of its lesign and location, Kenan Memorial Stadium is nique among the stadia of America.

The stadium, truly one of Chapel Hill's beauty pots, was a gift of William Rand Kenan, Jr., a listinguished and loyal son of the University of he Class of 1894, and constructed as a memorial o his mother, Mary (Hargrave), and his father, William Rand Kenan.

The original cost was $275,000, but the property s valued at many more times that figure now, of ourse. After the stadium proper was built, a ield house was added at one end of the field, vhere both the visiting and home teams dress for ames.

Construction of the stadium was begun in No- ember, 1926, and completed in August, 1927. The irst football game played there was between Car- lina and Davidson on Nov. 12. However, the ormal opening and dedication did not take place ntil the game with Virginia on Thanksgiving Day. The Tar Heels won by 14-13.

The stadium, as originally built, seated 24,000. For many years, however, an ingenious arrange- nent of portable grandstands, used for all the ames, has increased the capacity to 43,917 seats. On occasions even this capacity has been increased, nd games with Virginia, Duke, Notre Dame and Texas have accommodated as many as 46,000.

On one side of the stadium is a guest box, used by Trustees of the University and other special guests. The press box, of similar outward design, s located on the other side, directly opposite. Gifts rom Mr. Kenan enabled a complete rebuilding of hese structures in 1950. The new press box is of nique design, different from the sprawling press oxes in most big college stadia. It is very ompact and highly functional for reporters, radio nen and photographers and has been highly raised for its beauty and utility.

The stadium is used primarily for football ames but on occasions other functions are held here, including the annual Commencement ex- rcises of the University, conducted in the twilight.

The University

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, chartered in 1789, is the oldest state university in America, having first opened its door to students in 1795. Dr. Joseph Caldwell, a Princeton graduate, was the first president.

William Richardson Davie, along with other leading citizens of the state, backed the University. Legend has it that Davie, while leading an expedition searching for an appropriate site for the University, stopped to rest and have lunch. He was so charmed by the little village at which he stopped that he knew Chapel Hill was the place for starting this school.

The University opened with a single building as its entire physical plant, Old East dormitory, which is still in use today, the oldest structure on any state university campus.

For almost a month the faculty of two members sat and waited for the first student, Hinton James, who walked in from the seacoast town of Wilmington, 200 miles away.

By 1880 Carolina had the second largest student body in the nation and stood at the forefront of American universities.

Although it survived the Civil War, the University closed for five years during the Reconstruction period (1870-75). President Kemp P. Battle began the work of rebuilding, and by the dawn of the century he and President George T. Winston and President Edwin A. Alderman had succeeded in regaining much of the institution's prestige and leadership.

The post-World War I period brought great expansion to the campus of the oldest state university. Enrollment grew rapidly. A six million dollar building program began. And membership in the Association of American Universities, a group of the nation's top educational institutions, came in 1925.

State College at Raleigh and the Woman's College at Greensboro joined the University at Chapel Hill, during the depth of the depression, to become the Consolidated University of North Carolina. Dr. Frank P. Graham, currently a United Nations mediator and then head of the University of Chapel Hill, became president of the Consolidated University.

The University, like the state, has enjoyed steady growth. During World War II, as the home of one of the Pre-Flight schools, and afterward, with the great influx of veterans, the enrollment soared to a peak of 7,600 in 1948. The enrollment now is approximately 6,000.

The University is made up of 14 schools and colleges, but it's boundaries extend far beyond the campus to reach over half a million people through publications, lectures, institutes, conferences, radio programs—and now an educational television station, WUNC-TV. The University has just embarked upon a new era of service through the completion of a $20,000,000 building program. A new Health Center has opened, a complete new set of buildings for the School of Business Administration has been erected, the library has expanded, and soon educational television broadcasts will begin.

The physical plant of the University has grown to 1,700 acres and is valued at over $42,000,000. And although today's University of North Carolina takes natural pride in its tradition of a century and a half of public service, those now guiding its destiny look ahead to more growth and expanded service to the state for America's oldest state university.

Dr. Gordon Gray, former Secretary of the Army and one of the nation's most distinguished citizens, was elected president of the Consolidated University in 1950. Dr. Robert B. House is Chancellor of the University at Chapel Hill. Both are University graduates of high schoolastic attainments. Other officers of the College are nationally celebrated and they preside over a distinguished and superior faculty.

About Carolina

Enrollment: 4,500 Men, 1,500 Women.

School Colors: Carolina Blue and White.

Nickname: Tar Heels. Adopted by the State University for its athletic teams because North Carolinians generaly are known as Tar Heels. The nickname was applied to the area's residents as long ago as the Revolutionary War. Tar and turpentine were in abundance in North Carolina at that time. Legend has it that British generals noticed bare-footed natives with tar on their heels and first applied the nickname.

Mascot: The ram has been Carolina's mascot since 1924. Victor Huggins, then a student and head cheerleader and currently a Chapel Hill merchant, thought the football team should have a mascot. The first ram, bought by the Athletic Association for $25, was introduced in 1924. The date was November 7 and the Tar Heels defeated Virginia Military Institute 3-0. According to the best available records, the current ram is the seventh. He is called Rameses VII. The mascot is kept on Hogan Lake Farm near Chapel Hill. Bushy Cook is the bewhiskered character seen on the sidelines with Rameses.

Symbol: The Victory Bell, which is not on the campus at present, is awarded to the winner of the Carolina-Duke game. This year the bell is at Duke following last year's 35-20 Duke victory. The Bell was established five years ago by Norman Sper, Jr., and his assistant cheerleaders.

Stadium: Kenan Memorial, a natural bowl in the pines on the University campus. Seating is 43,971 with the supplementary bleachers.

Card Stunts: The popular card stunt feature of Carolina home games was organized four years ago by Norman Sper, Jr., then head cheerleader. Students sitting in the first student section perform these stunts without previous direction or instruction although there is long preparation by the Card Board.

University Band: The band usually numbers around 125 members. It is a popular feature at home games and sometimes is a part of the Tar Heel traveling party. The band is directed by Professor Earl Slocum. Besides its part in home games the band plays for torchlight parades and pep rallies for the game. Its concerts under Davie Poplar on the heart of the campus are popular features.

Alma Mater: "Hark the Sound." Tune is "Amici."

Songs: "Here Comes Carolina"; "Fight Song"; "Carolina Victory"; "Tar Heels on Hand."
